

Symposium on Teaching Japanese for Professional Purposes

University of Pennsylvania

Friday, March 26, 2010

A half-day symposium specifically focusing on teaching Japanese for Professional Purposes will be held from 8:30 am -12:00 noon, Friday, March 26, 2010, at the University of Pennsylvania. This symposium aims to offer an opportunity for both newcomers and experienced teachers in the field of Japanese for Professional Purposes to engage in vigorous discussions and build a network.

The symposium will consist of a series of short talks given by seven experts in the field of teaching Japanese for professional purposes, each of which will be followed by a question-and-answer session. It will surely be an informative and engaging event for those interested in developments in this field, and we hope that you will join us!

Registration is required: please visit website below

Keynote speakers:

Motoko Tabuse (Eastern Michigan University)

Yuki Matsuda (University of Memphis)

Invited speakers:

Toshiko Kishimoto (Clemson University)

Michio Tsutsui (University of Washington)

Jim Davis (University of Wisconsin at Madison)

Eiko Ushida (University of San Diego):

Junko Kondo (University of Michigan)

Contact:

Content/Speakers: Tomoko Takami, 215-573-3640, ttakami@sas.upenn.edu

Logistics: Bill Lovotti, wlovotti@wharton.upenn.edu

For further information, please visit:

<http://www.sas.upenn.edu/teachingjpp/>